

Brief Course Outline

Course Title: Anti-Racism in Global Health Promotion

Course Number and Section:

CGS

3533G 550

Instructor Name(s): Selma Tobah

Instructor Email(s): stobah@uwo.ca

Disclaimer: Information in the brief course outline is subject to change. The syllabus posted on OWL is the official and authoritative source of information for the course.

Course Description:

This course confronts problems of racism in global health promotion and generates critical perspectives on how health promotion objectives globally can be mobilised through fundamentally anti-racist practices. Students will investigate ways in which global health promotion may function with practices of decolonization and in support of community-based self-determination.

Learning Outcomes:

- Compare and contrast various definitions of health and health promotion
- Differentiate between interpersonal and systemic forms of racism, providing examples of each in the context of health promotion
- Understand how racism affects health globally and locally, with specific attention to Black, Indigenous, and newcomer populations
- Describe models of decolonization as they relate to health practices

Textbooks and Course Materials:

There are no textbooks required for this course. Weekly readings can be found online through the Western Library system and will be posted to OWL

Methods Of Evaluation:

Assignment	Due Date mm/dd/yy	Weight - %
OWL weekly contributions	12pm each day we have class	15
Reflection Paper 1	Student's choice	15
Reflection Paper 2	Student's choice	15
Research Outline and Annotated Bibliography	Feb. 14th 2025	15

Assignment	Due Date mm/dd/yy	Weight - %
Peer Reviews	March 25th 2025	5
Final Research Paper	April 4th	35

In solidarity with the Anishinaabe, Haudenosaunee, Lūnaapéewak, and Chonnonton peoples on whose traditional treaty and unceded territories this course is shared.

Sunday, December 8, 2024