Course Description:

POL3359G will introduce students to the politics of contemporary Africa, with a particular emphasis on addressing the question of why Africa continues to be the poorest and arguably most volatile continent. The course will explore this query through the use of both theoretical literature on Africa's underdevelopment, as well as focused case studies of particular countries. It will cover the history, politics, economics, and socio-cultural factors of development in Africa, starting with the precolonial era, but with particular emphasis on the 20th and 21st centuries.

The course begins with an exploration into precolonial and colonial political structures, before moving on to the legacies of colonial rule with regards to leadership styles and governance trends in the latter half of the 20th century. Students will then look into the causes and consequences of conflict in Africa, including consideration of the 'greed versus grievance' debate, the 'resource curse', weak states and borderland spaces, as well as the approaches taken by different countries towards transitional justice and reconstruction in the aftermath of war. Finally, the course will consider a range of other issues currently affecting African politics, including China's extensive neocolonial presence on the continent, trends in foreign aid by the international community, gender and sexuality politics, and chronic health crises.
